Description
Carpet Pythons: Morelia bredli, Morelia carinata and the Morelia spilota complex is an indepth publication devoted to the natural history and captive reproduction of Australian pythons from the genus Morelia.

Marc Mense has been keeping and breeding various carpet pythons for many years. In this book, he introduces to you all subspecies of Morelia spilota (carpet pythons, including the diamond python), Morelia bredli (Bredl's python), and the rough-scaled python (M. carinata) with detailed portraits. He describes how they live in the wild, and provides an easy-to-follow guide to how to keep them properly in a terrarium.

- Systematics: detailed identification key
- Biology: ecology of the animals in nature
- Terrarium: setting it up properly
• Handling carpet pythons: all the dos and don'ts

• Propagation: reproductive stimuli, incubation of eggs, and raising babies

• Diseases: preventing and solving problems

• Species accounts: detailed information on all species and subspecies

• Brilliant photographs of all forms
